

Are you looking for a hands-on and screen-free way to entertain your toddler or preschooler?

Or perhaps you're a:

- kindergarten/ special education teacher
- occupational therapist
- homeschool parent
- daycare educator

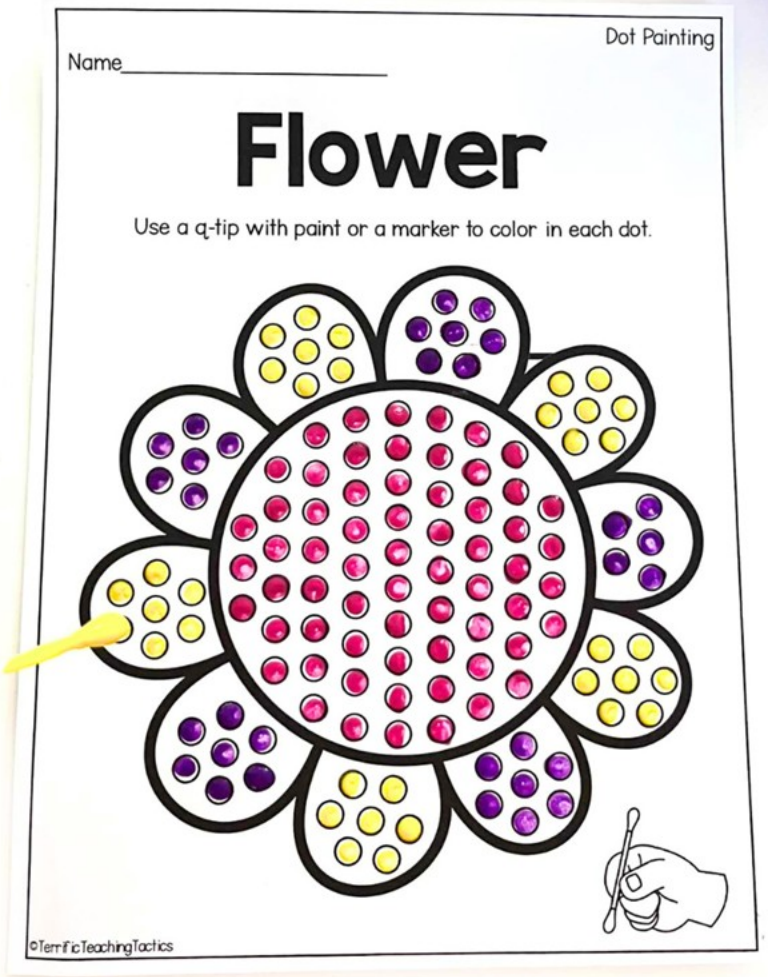
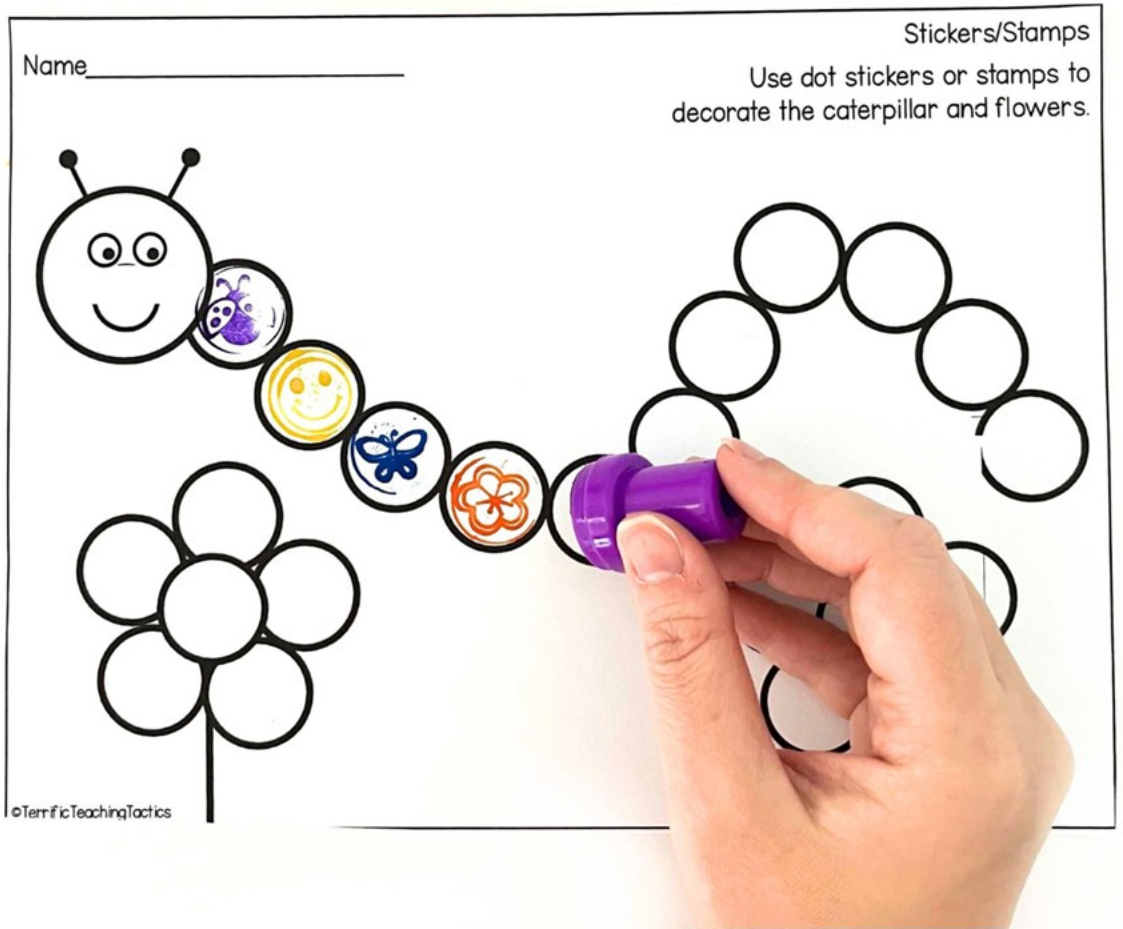
Either way, you'll love these engaging fine motor activities!



I was looking for fine motor activities for my 2 year old but I couldn't find a big variety of activities at an affordable price point.

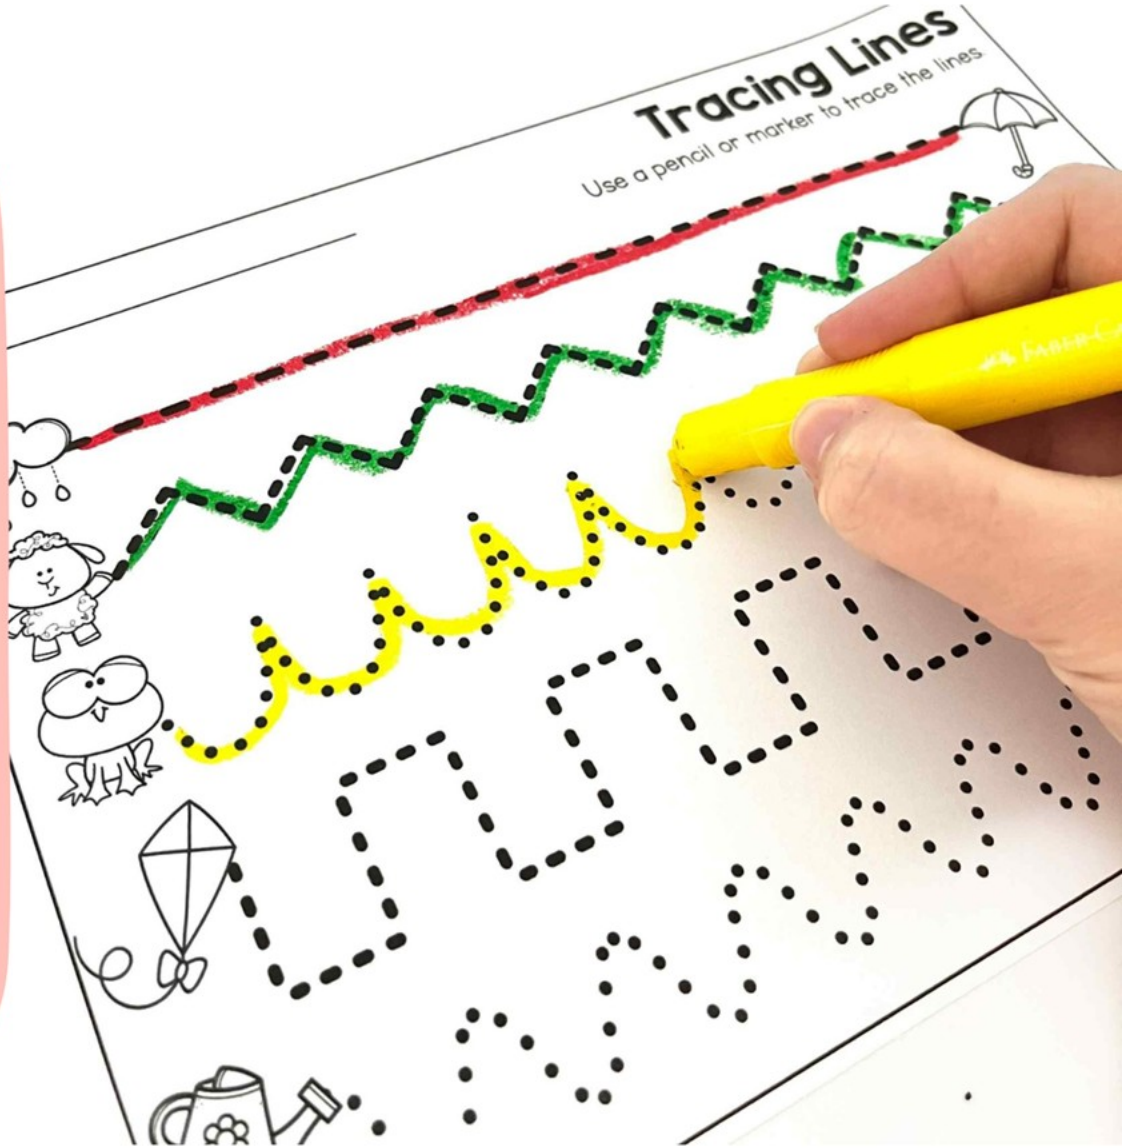
I didn't want letters or alphabet resources.
I wanted something cute that she'd engage with. So as a former teacher, I just had to make them myself!

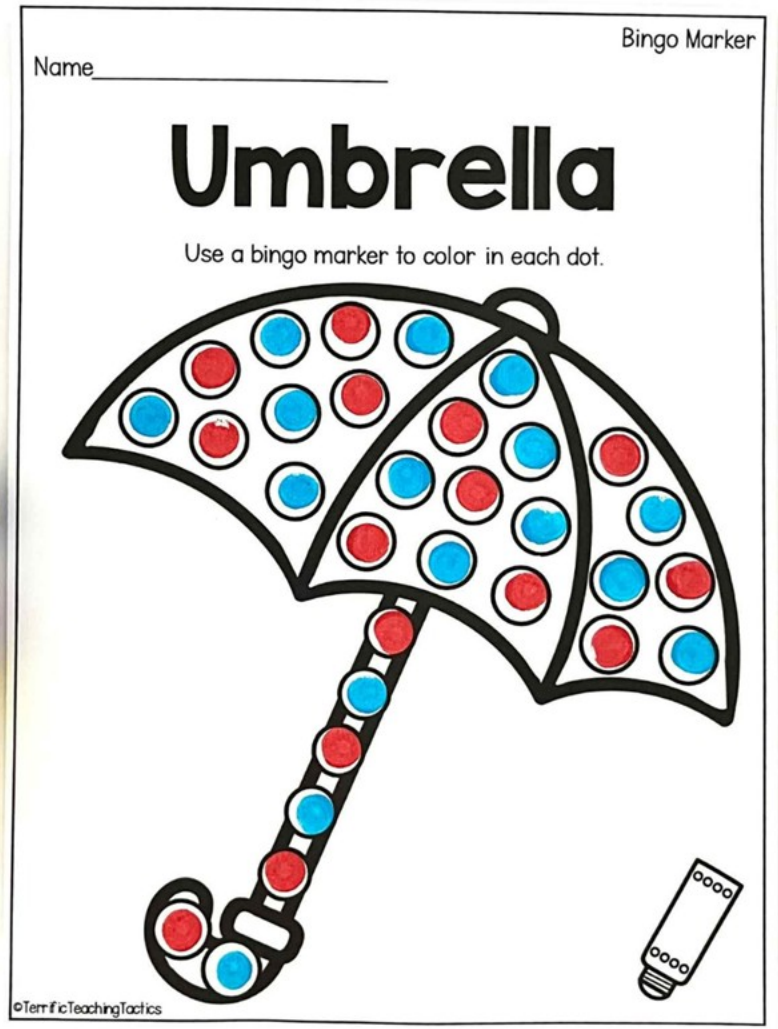


The following types of activities are included:

- Dot painting
- Bingo daubing
- Tear art
- Finger painting
- Tracing worksheets
- Dot stickers
- Stamping
- Placing objects
- Play dough mats

These activities have been toddler tested and approved! She can't wait to complete each activity.





These spring themed activities come in many versions. You can choose between flower, umbrella, sun, butterfly, tree, and rainbow.

There's over 50 pages of fun fine motor activities!

Little ones will really benefit from the fine motor but they'll just think...
"I'm doing crafts and having fun!"
